Legal Metrology: five fuel dispensing systems added to Government Approved Test Centre framework

24 May 2026 | Press Information Bureau

PIB said the Department of Consumer Affairs has amended the Legal Metrology (Government Approved Test Centre) Rules, 2013 to expand verification infrastructure for weights and measures. Government Approved Test Centres can now verify and re-verify five more categories of dispensing systems: petrol/diesel, CNG, LPG, LNG and hydrogen dispensers.

The release also says States are empowered to notify additional categories and that new verification fees have been notified for fuel dispensers. The move is expected to improve availability of verification services and support cleaner fuel adoption.

Key facts

Amended: Legal Metrology (Government Approved Test Centre) Rules, 2013

Added: petrol/diesel, CNG, LPG, LNG and hydrogen dispensers

Also: States can notify additional categories; new verification fees for fuel dispensers

Ministry: Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution

Exam takeaway: Legal metrology laws ensure weights, measures and dispensers give accurate quantities to consumers.
